OUR LADY OF GOOD HOPE, PINE HILL
HOCKING COUNTY, OHIO 1852-1892

The abandoned church of Our Lady of Good Hope, Pine Hill, Hocking county, as it appeared before it was razed about 1934. It was built in 1853. A monument made from the church's foundation stones, marks the spot today.

Pine Hill is just that, a hill with pines. It is situated in the northern part of Hocking county, very near the border of Fairfield county, and a little more than three miles from Sugar Grove. On Pine Hill two roads come together to form one. On the point between them there was built in 1853 (1) a small church dedicated to God under the patronage of Our Lady of Good Hope. It was located in Good Hope township, the name of which may have been a factor in the naming of the church.

The history of the little mission parish at Pine Hill parallels that of St. Joseph's, Rush Creek (2), Fairfield county. Catholic settlers came into the area before 1850. They were mostly of German and French origin, as were those of Logan and Rush Creek.

Property for a church was donated to Archbishop Purcell of Cincinnati in 1852 (3). On September 4 of that year Peter Marx and his wife, Elisabeth, "in consideration of one dollar," sold to the archbishop "fifty hundredths of an acre" in the northwest quarter of section 18, township 13 and range 8 of Hocking county, Ohio.

A particular condition of the Deed gives the names of the early members of the parish. "...Peter Marx, Nicholas Thoemmes, John Sunk, Nicholas Miller, John Shonebarger, Junior, Nicholas Shoneberger, Mathias Banner, Nicholas Schneider, John Sung, Franz Wolshire, Wendelin Schuh, Adam Schneider, Joseph Huber, Anton Smidt, Xavier Sailes, Mathias Kost, Leopold Kost, Wenebold Kost and John Shoneberger shall forever have the free right of burial on said land for use only of themselves and families as shall die in the peace of the Roman Catholic Church which shall solely and alone be determinable by the Priest having pastoral jurisdiction over the premises, appointed by the Ordinary of the Diocese in which such land is situated, being in full communion with the See of Rome...."

Tradition reveals that the pioneers of Pine Hill built their own church. Crude tools fashioned the area limestone for a solid foundation. Using the axe they formed white oak logs into the structure of the church and placed it on the stone foundation. When this was enclosed Our Lady of Good Hope was a reality.

Records of the early years seem to be non-existent. What do exist are found with those of St. Joseph's, Rush Creek. And these begin only in 1864. Records before that time are probably included among those of St. Mary's, Lancaster, since priests from there had charge of both missions in their early years. Pine Hill never grew to the status of a resident pastor, and no rectory was ever built.

Father Josue M. Young (1853) and Father Henry Lange (1855), both pastors at Lancaster, took care of the Rush Creek and Pine Hill missions. Father J. W. Brummer, who took over the administration of the Lancaster parish on the death of Father Lange in 1864, started the first book of sacramental records for his three mission parishes, Pine Hill, Rush Creek and Sacred Heart, Geneva.

It appears that Father J. C. Goldschmidt became the first resident pastor at St. Joseph's in 1871. He also had charge of the other two missions. In reporting the status of his charges to Bishop Rosecrans of Columbus in 1872 (4), he wrote that he visited "St. Mary's, Our Lady of Good Hope" at least once a month. Of the cemeteries at the three missions only the one at St. Mary's was blessed.

In 1873 Father Goldschmidt reported that he had made improvements costing $50 at Good Hope, and that there was no debt. He gave the following inventory of furnishings: Three chasubles, one veil, one alb, one surplice, a few amices, one mission chalice, one monstrance, 12 candlesticks, one cassock, one press for vestments, a missal with stand, a kneeling bench, a holy water pot with sumpkin, two small cassocks and surplices for boys, one Epistle and Gospel book, five chairs, two stoves with utensils, censer and boat, side table, three music books, a few altar cloths, corporals and purificators.

Father N. Gallweiler made the report in 1874. He was now visiting each mission every third Sunday. Father Louis Grimmer and Father Gabriel Volkert were pastors for short terms before Father H.H. Mayrose took over late in 1876. He remained for more than ten years.

In 1881 Father Mayrose reported that there were 17 families at Good Hope; receipts totalled $60.11, expenses $60.10. The following year there were 16 families and receipts, $65.47, expenses, $65.45. There was no debt. There was a marked decrease by 1885 when receipts were $27.87 and expenses $27.85. Yet in 1887 Father Mayrose could state that there were 17 families at Good Hope, which he visited every three weeks on Sundays. But there were only nine children in the catechism class.

Father Thomas J. Cody of Logan looked after the two missions for two years after Father Mayrose left in 1887. Father John Ritter came in 1889 and was there for the building and opening of the new church in Sugar Grove itself. Apparently by this time both the Rush Creek and the Good Hope missions were quite weak. In 1892 Father Ritter reported 12 families at Good Hope. The following year his report made no mention of the Pine Hill parish.

It seems that the old church at Rush Creek and the one at Good Hope were abandoned as places of worship at about the same time. This was in 1891 or 1892. A record of 1921 states that "it has been thirty-five years or more since Mass was celebrated in the old church. The benches and altar fixtures have been removed. The altar railing of black walnut remains in place and the little balcony that once boasted of a choir is almost as sturdy as the seasoned log walls that look as if they might have been built with the intention of serving the purpose of a block-house in the event of an attack by the Indians. The old bell is gone and the apertures that once contained windows now freely admit both sunlight and fresh air" (6).

By 1934 the neglected church had fallen into poor condition. The walls were down and it became necessary to clear the debris away. It was decided to place a memorial on the spot. Using the stones of the little church's foundation, an altar was built in memory of the pioneers who had built the church. On the altar was fastened a cross and six candlesticks. Embedded in the front of the altar was a large slab of marble on which was inscribed the following: "This altar is erected to the memory of the Catholic Pioneers who one this spot more than a century ago built a church of hewn oak to the honor of God and the glory of His Blessed Mother under the title of Our Lady of Good Hope. May their souls and the souls of all the faithful departed through the mercy of God rest in peace."

The memorial was built during the pastorate of Father Francis Hickey at St. Joseph's, Sugar Grove. And so passed Our Lady of Good Hope church. But its memory was to be perpetuated when a Catholic chapel was provided at the Boys' Industrial school, just a few miles away. It was dedicated to Our Lady of Good Hope. The chapel was built in 1959 and given its title in 1962 by Bishop Iszenamann.
